SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

To the Members of the School Board:

The schools of Springfield have continued the commendable work during this year which was commented upon in the last annual report. They are under the charge of experienced teachers and are profiting from the policy of retaining our teachers from year to year as far as can be done.

There are but three schools in operation this year as compared with four a year ago, the Sanborn school having decreased to three pupils, and closed in consequence. These pupils are being transported to the village school.

The Maxfield School has ceased to be a union school between Grafton and Springfield and is accommodating only Springfield pupils this year. It is under efficient management and the pupils are progressing well.

The Morgan School is fortunate in having Mr. George H. Gould for its teacher for the second year, and the pupils not only do considerable work but apparently enjoy it greatly.

The Village School is again under the teaching of Miss Maude E. Towle, and her teaching seems more effective than ever. Miss Towle is crowded with work, — not so much because of the number of pupils, although the school is unusually full, but because of the number of classes which she must conduct. There are pupils in all the eight grades, and each grade must be instructed in at least five complete subjects and in others from once to three times per week.

In accordance with the policy of the School Board of improving at least one schoolhouse each year, the Maxfield School has been refurnished with modern adjustable desks and seats, similar to those placed in the Morgan School a year ago.

Much has been written and said throughout the State concerning certain arithmetic and spelling tests which were given in November, 1923, to all eight grade pupils in the State of New Hampshire. The average of accuracy in the spelling test for the whole state, city and rural schools together was 67.42 per cent, with seventy-three towns and cities ranking 75 per cent and above. The eighth grade pupils of Springfield attained an average of 86 per cent in this spelling test. In the arithmetic test the State average was 49.29 per cent. The eighth grade pupils of Springfield secured an average of 100 per cent in this same test, at least as good a result as any other town could present. There were five pupils who took the test. It would seem as though an even greater accuracy in spelling should be expected of pupils in the last year of our elementary schools, for many of whom it will be the last of their school life. An average of 86 per cent means that out of every 100 words which they write 14 will be misspelled, an altogether too great a number for ordinary business and social letters.

Our young people who are pursuing High School and Academy work in other towns are doing well—some of them unusually well. A pupil may consider that he is doing satisfactory work if he attains a rank of B, or from 80 to 90 per cent in each study. In some of their work our pupils are standing higher than this, and thus reflect credit on themselves and the schools of their own town in which they received preparation for High School work.

Springfield is to be congratulated on a wide-awake and progressive school board and competent and industrious teachers, and upon pupils who possess a good degree of natural intelligence and common sense.

In closing I wish to express again my appreciation of the cordial courtesies of the teachers, school board and townspeople.

Respectfully submitted,
H. H. PRATT.
